BOARD OF BUILDINGS.

Revised Rules and Regulations of the Board of Buildings in Relation to the Testing of Fireproof Doors to be Hereafter Installed in Class A and B Multiple Dwellings.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT PURSUANT to the provisions of section 406 of chapter 764 of the Laws of 1933, the following rules and regulations in relation to the testing of fireproof doors are to be effective April 16, 1934.
FRANK C. KELLER, Chairman, Board of Buildings.
EDWIN H. TRATCHER, Secretary, Board of Buildings.

STANDARD ONE-HOUR FIRE TEST FOR FIREPROOF DOORS EXCEPT SHUTT DOORS.
Rule No. 1. Control of Fire Test.

1.1. The conduct of all fire tests of fireproof doors shall be controlled by the time-temperature curve specified in the standards of the American Society for testing materials, serial designation C 19-33, A.S.T.M., and in accordance with the details of procedure therein specified unless otherwise provided in these rules.

1.2. The time-temperature curve of the fire shall be determined from average of the reading of sufficient thermo-couples symmetrically disposed and distributed in the furnace to record the temperature near all parts of the test assembly, but in no case shall less than three (3) thermo-couples be used.

1.3. The accuracy of the temperature control shall be such that the result under the time-temperature curve obtained by averaging the results from the pyrometer readings in the furnace is within ten (10) per cent. of the corresponding area under the standard time-temperature curve, for the period of duration of the fire test.

1.4. The temperature of the unexposed surface of the specimen shall be determined at the center and at the midpoints of the upper and lower sections of the assembly if such points occur on the thinnest parts of the assembly, otherwise on the thinnest parts of the assembly as near as possible to such points. The temperature shall be measured by not less than three (3) thermo-couples or thermometers placed under flexible oven-dried, filled asbestos pads shaped to contact intimately over the whole surface against which they are placed. The hot junction of the thermo-couple or the bulb of the thermometer shall be placed approximately under the center of the pad. Thermometers if used shall be of the partial immersion type, with a length of stem between end of bulb and immersion mark of three (3) inches.

1.5. The fire shall continue for one hour. Temperature readings at all points on both sides of the assembly shall be taken at intervals of five minutes. Time-temperature curves shall be plotted from both sets of readings.

1.6. All tests shall be conducted under the supervision and control of a recognized testing authority and a complete report of the procedure and results shall be submitted by him to the Board of Buildings of The City of New York. Such report must contain a detailed description of the assembly with the specification of all materials entering into, and the methods of manufacturing and assembling same.

1.7. All tests shall be conducted in the presence of representatives of the Department of Buildings who must be given every facility to inspect the test samples, instruments and method of installation and to observe the conduct of the test. The cost of the tests and all necessary expenses incidental thereto shall be borne by the applicant for approval.

Rule No. 2. Test Structure.

2.1. The testing furnace shall be of sufficient size and arrangement to perform and determine all the requirements specified in these rules and may be located in any convenient place where all the necessary facilities for conducting the tests are provided.

2.2. Fuel for firing the furnace may be wood, gas, oil or other fuel provided the fire and the temperature can be controlled with the accuracy specified in Rule 1, and the test requirements are met.

2.3. An observation vestibule or chamber shall be erected as an integral part of the test structure to form a complete enclosure around the unexposed side of the test door, with a clear height of not less than eight (8) feet and not to exceed ten (10) feet and the volume of not more than one thousand (1,000) cubic feet. The observation chamber shall be provided with an accessible entrance door and fixed sashes for observation. Mechanical ventilation shall be provided to supply not less than four and not more than ten changes per hour in the volume of air of the observation chamber when the doors are closed.

Rule No. 3. Test Specimen.

3.1. The test door shall consist of a complete full size door, assembly, truly representative as to materials, dimensions and workmanship of the type of door and frame for which approval is desired, fully equipped with hardware and hanging on the number and type of hinges, and installed in all essentials as in actual service, except that door closers or checks need not be applied in the test.

3.2. When the door assembly involves the use of locks or other hardware of special design, such devices shall be installed in the test and shall be considered an integral part of the assembly submitted for approval.

3.3. Tests of all fire door assemblies shall be accepted as including assemblies of smaller sizes and assemblies for service in larger sizes not exceeding the test door by more than one-eighth in both dimensions; but in no case shall the test have less than the following minimum dimensions:

Single doors, 3 feet by 6 feet 8 inches.
Double doors, 6 feet by 6 feet 8 inches.

3.4. All test doors shall be installed in the test furnace as to swing inwardly towards the fire. They shall be hung to swing freely as under the usual service condition.

3.4. Before the exposure to fire the test assembly shall be carefully examined for details and workmanship of installation.

Rule No. 4. Conditions of Acceptance.

4.1. Doors with their bucks, jams, frame and hardware designed for use as fireproof doors under the provisions of the Multiple Dwelling Law (Chapter 713, Laws of 1929), as amended, subjected to a one-hour fire test as described above shall not be considered to have successfully passed said test unless they have met the following conditions:

4.2. The door or frame shall neither warp, deform, break down or burn so as to permit the passage through any openings, holes or cracks under conditions of neutral pressure in the test furnace of smoke in such volume as to render it unsafe for any observer to occupy the closed vestibule with the ventilating device described under section 2.3 in operation.

4.3. At no time during the exposure to fire shall any flame pass through the assembly nor shall any flame, hot or noxious gases or smoke be given off the unexposed side of the assembly to render unsafe the occupancy of the vestibule under the conditions described in section 4.1.

4.4. The transmission of heat through the assembly during the fire endurance test shall be such that the rise in temperature on the unexposed side at the end of the first twenty (20) minutes of fire shall be not more than 300 degrees Fahrenheit and at the end of sixty minutes not more than 650 degrees Fahrenheit above the initial temperature.

The average of the temperatures recorded by the thermo-couples on the unexposed side shall be used to measure transmitted heat except that if any thermo-couple shall indicate a rise temperature thirty per cent. higher than the above limits, the specimen shall be considered unacceptable.

Rule No. 5. Conditions of Approval.

5.1. Door assemblies in service shall be manufactured of the materials and in the manner of the specimens tested and must maintain the standards of the official test. Details and specifications of the specimen must be strictly followed except that other locks, which would not reduce the fire resistance of the door may be substituted for the lock used in the test.

5.2. The manufacturer shall permit, during the process of the manufacture of approved doors, the inspection by representatives of the Board of Buildings, or of such agency approved by the Board, of the materials and method of manufacture of such doors. Each approved door must be marked with the identification serial number, the name of the manufacturer and the date of manufacture. Only doors so marked may be used in multiple dwellings.

5.3. At the discretion of the Board of Buildings representative samples of the products of any manufacturer, selected at the place of manufacture or at the job, must be subjected to the standard one-hour fire endurance test as described by these rules. Not more than one door out of every two hundred and fifty doors of the same type and size manufactured need be subjected to such test. All tests must be conducted at the expense of the manufacturer.

5.4. A complete set of specifications of material and construction must be filed with each and every door which is to be subjected to a test. These specifications must be filed before the actual test is made. Approvals will be granted based on the specifications submitted at the time of the test.

5.5. These rules are subject to revision and amendment by the Board of Buildings. The Commissioner of Buildings in each Borough shall enforce the rules and regulations set forth herein.

5.6. All approvals are issued on the condition that the manufacturer who receives such approval will faithfully observe all rules and regulations governing the manufacture and inspection and testing of doors. Should any test or inspection disclose a violation of such rules, any approval issued by the Board of Buildings will be revoked.

The contract must be bid for separately. The right is reserved in each case to reject all bids if it is deemed to be for the interest of the City so to do.

Bidders will write out the amount of their bids in addition to inserting the same in figures. Bidders are requested to make their bids upon the blank form prepared and furnished by the City, a copy of which, with the proper envelope in which to include the bid, together with a copy of the contract, including the specifications, in the form approved by the Corporation Counsel, can be obtained upon application therefor at the office of the department for which the work is to be done or the supplies are to be furnished. Plans and drawings of construction work may be seen there.
